We recently extended our house and this work was carried out by Ballpark Developments. The extension consisted of; re-building the attached garage, an upstairs bedroom and study, downstairs shower room, utility room, and dining/seating area.

Although there were delays due to bad weather, both Mark and Tony ensured that the build came in on budget and any extra work was costed and itemised separately enabling us to track our expenditure.

All of the Ballpark employees were hard working and polite and we had no problem with supplying them with a set of keys to our property. All external contractors were managed by Mark and Tony and any problems which arose, were dealt with by them to our satisfaction. Our building work was complicated by the need for piled foundations, however, there was no extra fee for managing the piling company, unlike some other building contractors whose quote included a charge for this service.

Mark and Tony made themselves available to discuss the progress of the work as we went along and any problems which were identified, were sorted without fuss or delay. They also spoke to our immediate neighbours before the building work commenced, to reassure them and provide them with a point of contact.

We are really pleased with our extension which has provided us with a light and spacious living space. We would definitely use Ballpark again and recommend their services.
